Escape to the Yorkshire Dales

Grange Cottage, Thoralby

Off the high green the houses straddle the minor road as it passes through to link remote farm houses and eventually turn to hillside tracks leading to the moors. Grange Cottage is a semi-detached, Grade II Listed Building sitting peacefully, just off the green, in the tranquil heart of the village.

Entry is to a spacious, well proportioned lounge with beamed ceiling and stone fireplace with multi-fuel stove. Off the lounge is a well equipped, shaker style kitchen with laminate floor and ample room for family dining that overlooks the garden. A stairway with decorative balustrade and stylish arched window rises from the lounge to a small landing serving a large twin bedroom to the front, a double bedroom to the rear and a bathroom with bath, washbasin and toilet. To the rear of the cottage is a mature, south facing, open garden with lawn and flowerbeds and wonderful views throughout Bishopdale and beyond into Wensleydale and the lower reaches of Walden.

A stout and traditional dales family house renovated with care to retain its character, furnished with a mix of antique and modern and loving care in its decoration to provide a high standard of accommodation for all the family to enjoy.

Thoralby

In the lower reaches of Bishopdale the steep valley sides unfold and the high fells of Stake and Wasset diminish as the valley is embraced by first Walden to the south and then Wensleydale to the north. The flat valley floor also rises and undulates with drumlins and moraine deposited in the glacial past, narrowing the dale and providing a platform to bridge Bishopdale Beck.

Here is where the village of Thoralby nestles into the southern slopes amongst rich meadows, woodland and pasture with a vantage that views to Bishopdale, the slopes of Wasset Fell, Penhill and on into Wensleydale. The village is small but straggling with lanes and footpaths running to the higher fells or surrounding hamlets and farmhouses. A tranquil place with a small village green at its heart but a community large enough to support a shop/Post Office and local pub.
