Escape to the Yorkshire Dales

The Shippon, Askrigg

Standing by the side of Mill Lane, a quiet cul-de-sac, which leaves the west side of the village towards Mill Gill, is The Shippon a traditional semi-detached dales cottage worked in local stone. To the side of the cottage is a parking area and a small but tranquil patio garden with teak bench, barbecue and patio set.

The front entrance opens to a small wood panelled hallway which in turn leads to a cosy lounge with beechwood floor, raised hearth and multi-fuel stove inset in a rustic brick fireplace. Through the lounge is a modern well equipped pine kitchen and dining area with a flagged tiled floor.

A panelled stairway with balustrade rises from the lounge to a landing serving two bedrooms, each with a double bed and views out over the dale to the slopes of Addlebrough. There is also a good sized bathroom with bath, shower, washbasin, toilet and heated towel rail.

The extensive use of wood panelling, fitments and furniture blending with mellow beech, along with a décor of rich colours in co-ordination with traditional furnishings provides warm and cosy accommodation to a very high standard.

Askrigg

Once a bustling market village of upper Wensleydale, Askrigg still reflects its history with stone flagged pavements leading to a cobbled market place centred by an ancient cross and overlooked by a 13th century church.

The main street, lined by impressive terraced dwellings, is the beginning of many wynds and narrow side streets with yards and gardens that lead on to footpaths offering circuitual routes with splendid views of Wensleydale backclothed by the steep fells of Addlebrough.

Compare the white cascades of nearby Mill Gill and Whitfield Gill Force to the local meandering of the river Ure before it too rushes to fall spectacularly at Aysgarth.

For the essentials and pleasantries of life, Askrigg offers three public houses, a general store, cafe, delicatessen and bakery.
